Ancestry.com's Social Security Death Index lists over 72 million names dating from as early as the 1930s. Compiled from the Social Security Administrations Master Death File, this searchable database is a good starting point for those beginning their genealogy.

Tips for using the SSDI

Most of the names listed in the Social Security Death Index date from the 1960s. Though the Social Security Act was created in 1935, a computer system for reporting death benefit claims did not exist until 1962.

Keep in mind that the Social Security Death Index does not list every person who received Social Security Benefits. This index only lists deaths that were actually reported to the Social Security Administration.

Once youve found the name of a relative, you can request a copy of the full Social Security report from the Social Security Administration. Just click on Order original application to send for a copy of your ancestors original Social Security information. You can also use the information in this index to obtain birth, death, and employment records.
